A portion of upper Maria and the majority of Keisler Way will not be paved. They were included in paving by the city of Louisville within the last couple of years and after evaluating the state of the roads and considering our priority to be fiscally responsible for this project, we determined they do not need to be repaved, thus saving the city some money on this project. However, there is a patch of Keisler Way that is in need of repair and we will take care of that as part of this project.

Hall Contracting, who is conducting this work, has indicated they will put out signs in the areas where work is scheduled. They are in charge of traffic control, though Chief Yeager will also be out assisting.

We do not expect any obstruction to your driveway. However, if you plan on leaving your home on the day your road is scheduled to be paved, it is important you do not drive on the road when they are working in that area. When the crew puts down the tack coat prior to the asphalt, it will stick to your tires and then be transferred to your driveway. There will be no way to remove it. If this is a concern, please consider parking your car on a street that will not be paved on that day. There will be no citations for cars parked on the street overnight.

You likely have noticed crews completed curb and gutter work at the end of this week. We repaired 22 spots in the city we hope will help with drainage.

We appreciate your patience with this project. We have been planning and saving for this for several years. We want to ensure we do not want the roads to deteriorate to the point that would be hazardous to those driving and walking through the neighborhood. Based on the professional opinions of those who have looked at our street, we determined now is the best time. This has also worked out to our favor because of the unusually low cost of oil we expect to come in several thousand dollars under budget.

If you have any questions, please contact the maintenance commissioner Mike Borders.
